On December 21, 2020, the planets Jupiter and Saturn conjoined in the heavens. Such "great conjunctions" happen about every 20 years, but this one was special. Uncovering Past Lives or Alternate Lifetimes. Let's say you didn't come here for a lecture on quantum physics. Let's say we're going to an alternate reality: Time is malleable. The past, present, and future coexist in a single moment. Reincarnation is a possibility. And this present life might be a blip in a constellation of lives that compose your soul's identity. This theory cannot be proven. It cannot be disproven. I don't feel it's necessary to learn about all of your past lives. It can become detrimental to dwell on alternate existences because we are meant to be present and working to obtain our highest blueprint for this lifetime. I don't believe it's healthy to get distracted or attached to alternate lifetimes. My Books.
